TWENTY-FIVE YEARS

The interesting article on the front page today from R.B. Hudgins, county agent, should be read by everyone in the county, for it tells a fascinating story of a quarter of a century of agricultural development in Appomattox. Mr. Hudgins very properly pays a deserved tribute to the men who started the Extension work here, and reviews the able foundation they laid for better farms and better farming. However, Mr. Hudgins becomes very modest when he comes to review the record of the county agent's own service. Since 1933 there has been a complete revolution in the attitude of government toward agriculture, and it has called for tact and genuine ability to apply the national programs in individual counties and to individual farms. The success of the vast program here is a testimonial to "Rub" Hudgins and his able assistants and committees.

PRODUCE PAYS THE BILL

On taking an inventory of the work of a passing year in Appomattox, we desire to make mention of the service rendered our county by those enterprising local merchants who have made Appomattox a year-around market for county produce. Many of our farm families need to market an appreciable amount of country produce in order to fill out their necessary purchase list and to meet their operating expenses.

Appomattox has the reputation of having as much retail volume of trade as any town its size in Virginia. There are other factors to make this possible, but one of them surely is the enterprise of our merchants in handling a great volume of country produce.

SALUTE TO THE FAITHFUL

The first of the year is a customary occasion to pause and publicly salute those who have rendered commendable service during the past year. In this connection, we wish to call your attention to the community news correspondents who week in and week out tell you what is going on in Oakville, Vera, Pamplin, Stone Spring, Evergreen, Chap, Liberty Chapel, Somewill, Hollywood, Rocks, Hixburg, Forest View, Spring Mills, Buckham, Cub Creek and the other points of local interest. Somehow, events as reported from Europe, China, Washington and the great centers of the world's fanfare never seemed important to us to a greater degree than the items sent in each week by our rural correspondents! Distance may lend enchantment to the news, but proximity lends interest! So, here is a salute to you, our faithful correspondents, and thanks a million for keeping our readers informed of the complete news picture of old Appomattox during another year!

Prompt Help For A Listless Child
Scolding won't help a boy or girl who is listless, dull or cross from constipation. But, here's something that will!
If sluggish bowels have your child headachy, bilious, upset, give him a little Syrup of Black-Draught tonight. Like the original famed BLACK-DRAUGHT, its principal ingredient is an intestinal tonic-laxative. Helps impart tone to the bowel muscles.
Children like the taste of Syrup of Black-Draught. It is an all vegetable product. When simple directions are followed, its action is gentle, but prompt and complete. Comes in two sizes: 50c and 25c.

NYA Offers A Chance To Musicians

NYA Administrator Aubrey Williams announced today that the 109 young musicians who are to make up Leopold Stokowski's all-American youth orchestra to be organized this winter for a good-will tour of South and Central America, will be received through the State offices of the National Youth Administration.

The arrangement was announced following a conference between Mr. Williams and the noted orchestra conductor.

The tour is being planned with the cooperation of the Pan-American Union and Mr. Stokowski has said that a special ship may be chartered for the trip.

Preliminary auditions will be arranged by Mr. Stokowski and the NYA in six or eight central cities, if enough satisfactory applications are received. Mr. Stokowski plans to arrange transportation to New York or some other central point for those who are recommended following the regional auditions.

The 51 State offices of the NYA are being directed to receive and pass on preliminary applications of accomplished young musicians, Both NYA workers and non-NYA young people under 25 will be eligible.

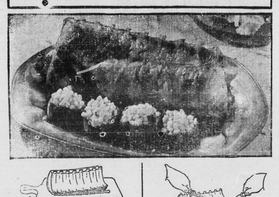
THE ART OF CARVING PORK LOIN



1. Note how the backbone has become loosened during cooking. The roast has been placed on a carving board, so that the backbone may be removed before the roast is placed on the platter.

2. Just one sweep of the knife will sever the backbone from roast.

3. Here is the roast on the platter in the correct position for the carver. The ribs, you see, are toward him where they will serve as guide to the direction the knife should take.

The carver should hold the roast steady by inserting the fork in the top as shown in the illustration. Roast pork is more tempting if the slices are cut thin. The carver cuts close against both sides of each rib. Every other slice will be boneless. If the loin is small, the slice will be thin enough if the cut is made between each pair of ribs—then every slice will contain a rib. With a large loin, two boneless slices may be cut between ribs.

"Jill of All Arts" Is Italian Sculptress

Antonietta Paoli Pogliani Has Five Sculptures at International Women's Show in New York

NEW YORK—"Jill of all the arts" is Antonietta Paoli Pogliani, eminent Italian sculptress and painter whose works are to be seen in the exhibition of International Women painters, sculptors and gravers now current at the Riverside Museum in New York. Organized by the National Council of Women of the United States, the exhibition is being given under the sponsorship of the International Council of Women which endorsed the exhibition at its meeting in Edinburgh in 1938. Difficulties created by the outbreak of war limited the exhibit to the works of women artists from ten countries.

A painter as well as a sculptress of international prominence, Miss Pogliani won her first laurels in sculpture and held successful exhibitions in Paris and in Rome. Restless after her success in sculpture, however, she successively explored other fields of art with equal success. She has executed many panelled wo[illegible]ated jewelry and household [illegible]dart," designed interiors a[illegible]native statuary, all of which [illegible]crystallized in a "one man" show at the Monza Decorative exhibition which included examples of her versatile creative talents. Another interesting aspect of her work is her studies of heads, one of which, "Hands of a Mother," was purchased by His Majesty The King of Italy.

Not content with special commissions which included panels of the "Four Seasons" for a theatre and a group of fountains for the Palazzo Marino in Milan, Mme. Pogliani turned her talents toward the sports world and executed three excellent figures, the "Javelin Thrower," the "Goal Keeper," and the "Football Player."

As President of the Fine Arts Committee of the International Federation of Business and Professional Women, Mme. Pogliani has been immeasurably responsible for bringing the work of her fellow women artists to public attention. The Italian exhibit at the Riverside Museum represents the work of twenty-one outstanding women painters and sculptors of Italy and was arranged under her personal supervision. Many of these exhibitors have already been seen at international shows in which she has taken an active part, notably the exhibition at Amsterdam in 1934, at Warsaw in 1935, and at Milan in 1936. Mme. Pogliani Paume in 1937.

The current exhibition at the Riverside Museum will continue until January fifteenth.

News Letter From Evergreen Scribe

Evergreen, Jan. 2.- Be very sure that you do not make any rash New Year resolutions that you have no expectation of keeping!

Here is my one and only resolution for the year 1940, A.D.: that inasmuch as I have only today, that I know not what tomorrow has in store for me, therefore I am resolved not to borrow any of tomorrow's troubles, but I will enjoy all of the good things that may be vouchsafed me by a divine providence.

This morning is decidedly the coldest one of the present winter.

It is rather unusual that the year 1939 had no cold spell of sufficient duration to enable those still having an ice-house to store a supply for either the past or the coming summer. There was a sufficient freeze in December, 1938 for one of my friends to fill his large ice-house, which supply usually lasts him through August.
